Jack Susie's sister and his best friend Binkie make occasional appearances in books; They hate the Seven Secrets and revel in playing tricks designed to humiliate them, although this is partly fueled by their almost obsessive desire to belong to society. Unlike most other Blyton series, this takes place during the school period because the characters go to day schools. Continuing the Blyton series, adding elements of horror. Origin The Secret Seven and Famous Five names had already been used by the author Charles Hamilton, under the name Frank Richards, in his long series of stories featuring Billy Bunter and Greyfriars School. The Seven Secrets was the name of a secret society that in a series of eleven stories published in The Magnet magazine in 1934; [citation needed] the term "Famous Five" dates back to 1910 and is applied to a group of main characters: Harry Wharton, Frank Nugent, Bob Cherry, Johnny Bull and Hurree Jamset Ram Singh. It is unclear whether Enid Blyton was influenced by Hamilton's eldest daughter, Gillian Baverstock, describes a conversation between the author and his publisher who led to the beginning of the Seven Secrets of Blyton. His sons, the elder of whom Peter was appointed, had formed a secret society with their friends. They met in an old shed, used secret passwords and had badges inscribed with "SS". After taking part in lifePeter, in 1948 Blyton published his first story Secret Seven, which describes how his fictional society came to aformat. This was a short story entitled "The Secret of the Old Mill". He followed a short previous story, "At Seaside Cottage", which introduced the main characters Peter and Janet before the formation of society. Five more stories followed and fifteen books of length. Towards the end of the book, some horse thieves are defeated. In history, Janet reads a Famous Five novel. Five.Peter - The leader of society and the most leadership of the group. Although smart and strong, it is easily light and angry. A strong and capable leader, has a large strip, dizzying of being unreasonable (especially on wearing badges and remembering password), reducing Pam and Barbara to cry, and on an occasion, causing Jack to temporarily leave the group. He, Janet and Jack are often closer to each other than other members of the group. Peter sometimes teases his sister, but recognizes her as a good member of the Society. Janet - Peter's sister. Janet is very good friends with Pam, and it's okay with Jack. Think of many good ideas. She's pretty messy, and it takes too long to write if trying to write if trying to write neatly. Jack - Peter's best friend. He agrees with everyone in the group, especially Peter, but he is also the only member who will gladly rise to Peter when he feels that he behaves unreasonably, to the extent that he once left the group after a discussion with him (although they reconciled at the end). Jack lives very close to Peter and Janet. She thinks Janet is much better than the other girls and wants Susie to be like Janet. Pam - A girl at Janet's school. Her best friend is Barbara and she laughs a lot. His full name is Pamela. Sometimes it proves to be a worthy member of the Seven Secrets getting the brain waves[the necessary clarification], but sometimes it is unwise, how to scream the password and squeal when Peter was almost pushed out of their "secret" tree house. Barbara - Another girl at Janet's school. She and Pam generally work (and giggle) togethersearching for clues or information. I'm out a lot.how not to be able to introduce themselves to a meeting because they are going to the same party. Barbara was the only member of the company, although perhaps the quietest of the boys. He has a big family, most of which he lives with. Find her creepy family and she's afraid of the dark. He made the mystery warm in "Secret Seven Adventure" when he saw a man escape from the house of Lady Thomas. George - A boy at Peter's school. His best friend is Colin. George's father once forbade him from society, but later made his mistake and made George come back. Not much else is known about him, as he is rather undeveloped as a character. Scamper - Janet and Peter's pet dog and beloved companion. He is not an official member of the Seven Secrets, but children count him as one, because of his regular utility in the denial of stories. He temporarily compiled for members when they left the group for any reason. He's an English friend Cocker Spaniel. He loves food, especially cookies. Susie Support Characters - Jack's younger sister who often aggravates him and the Society, which Peter regularly rejects. This is actually something disadvantage for Peter, as Susie is considerably smarter and smarter than some of the other members, especially Barbara and Pam, and could be a more valuable member. The Seven occasionally make a temporary truce with Susie, and sometimes helps them solve mysteries. Binkie - Susie's best friend, did not appear at that point. Bony. The French friend of Susie and Jack who appears in a book. His real name is Jean Baptiste Boneparte. She's very shy, shy and loves dogs. Alsodogs love him and they are often attracted to him. He's moretowards Susie rather than Jack and is often annoyed with S.S. He was a member of Susie's club for a few days before returning to France and shortly after the club broke. Jack the peasant - Jack the farmer is the father of Peter and Janet's mother, Peter and Janet's mother, supports the Seven Secrets and their good work. It often provides snacks for their meetings. Jack's mother - unlike Peter's mother, Jack's mother, Jack's mother, Jack's mother doesn't think that the Seven Secrets are particularly important and gets angry when Jack puts all his effort to satisfy Peter's wishes, even if he sometimes provides the Seven. Matt the Shepherd - colleague of Peter's father, who works on the farm. He's got a dog called Shadow who's stolen in a mystery, but he's recovered. Shadow - Matty the good old shepherd is strong, heavy shepherd dog who loves his master very much. Matt loves him as a brother, too. It is stolen in a mystery in the book Shock for Secret Seven but is recovered later. The inspector - the police inspector to whom the Seven Secrets always report the cases. He became a good friend of the Seven Posters the Postman - Postie was the postman of the area and almost all dogs were attracted to him. He was found criminal in the book Shock for Secret Seven and was imprisoned. The gardener - Peter and the gardener of Janet, who has a bad character, but can be witty and also useful when helping to capture some criminals along with Matt the Shepperd and Peter's father in Good Old Secret Seven.
